

TURBULENT TRANSITION Biden moves forward with Covid task force

Scientists will liaise with local officials on the pandemic response

REUTERS
Washington, November 9

PRESIDENT-ELECT JOE Biden will convene a coronavirus task force on Monday to examine the No. 1 problem confronting him when he takes office in January, while President Donald Trump pursues several long-shot gambits to hold on to his job.

Biden is due to meet with an advisory board co-chaired by former Surgeon General Vivek Murthy, former Food and Drug Administration Commissioner David Kessler and Yale University Associate Professor Marcella Nunez-Smith to examine how best to tame a pandemic that has killed more than 237,000 Americans.

The Democratic former vice president will then give remarks in Wilmington, Delaware, about his plans for tackling Covid-19 and rebuilding the economy.

"Dealing with the coronavirus pandemic is one of the most important battles our administration will face, and I will be informed by science and by experts," Biden said in a statement on Monday.

Even as Trump declines to concede and some of his closest allies encourage him to exhaust every recourse for hanging onto power, the Biden-appointed scientists and experts will liaise with local and state officials on the pandemic response. They will consider how to safely reopen schools and businesses and tackle racial disparities.

The Biden panel includes Rick Bright, a whistleblower who says he was removed from his Trump administration post for raising concerns about coronavirus preparedness, and Luciana Borio, who specialises in complex public health emergencies.

Trump has frequently clashed with top health officials over the pandemic. Vice President Mike Pence is due to meet with the White House coronavirus task force on Monday for the first time since Oct. 20.

Biden cleared the threshold of 270 Electoral College votes needed to win the White House on Saturday, four days after the November 3 election. He beat Trump by more than 4 million votes nationwide, making Trump the first president since 1992 to lose reelection.

But Trump has not acknowledged defeat and has launched an array of lawsuits to press claims of election fraud for which he has produced no evidence. State officials say they are not aware of any significant irregularities.

"The Biden selection by the Crooked Media is based on unlawful votes in PA, Mich, GA, Wisc, Nevada et al. We will prove it all," Rudy Giuliani, Trump's personal lawyer and a former New York City mayor, said on Twitter early Monday.

Trump has no public events scheduled for Monday, and has not spoken in public since Thursday. He plans to hold rallies to build support for his challenge to the election results, campaign spokesman Tim Murtaugh said.

Biden's advisers are moving ahead and considering candidates for top Cabinet posts. But the transition cannot shift into high gear until the US General Services Administration, which oversees federal property, certifies the winner. Emily Murphy, the Trump appointee who runs the agency, has not yet done so and a GSA spokeswoman gave no timetable for the decision.

Until then, the GSA can continue providing Biden's team with offices, computers and background checks for security clearances, but they cannot yet enter federal agencies or access federal funds set aside for the transition.

Pandemic takes centre stage in American holiday shopping advertisement campaigns

REUTERS

AFTER SPENDING THE summer convincing consumers to take socially distanced breaks from grim reality, advertisers are now returning to the pandemic as the central focus in holiday shopping campaigns launching this month.

US companies from car-makers to retailers are under pressure to make the shopping season a success after retail sales crashed 21% earlier this year as millions of Americans lost jobs and cut their budgets. They face the challenge of convincing consumers to open their wallets for the holidays even as the coronavirus pandemic rages anew across the United States and Europe.

As new campaigns roll out, brands feel it is their responsibility to inspire optimism for the coming year, but also empathise with "the hurt that people have," said Jason Schragger, chief creative officer at ad agency Saatchi & Saatchi.

Carmaker Lexus' iconic "Remember to Remember" campaign, which features cars wrapped in giant red bows on picturesque snowy driveways, will focus on the different role that driveways have played this year, as people sought ways to celebrate birthdays, anniversaries and other milestones despite stay-at-home orders.

New TV commercials launching on Monday feature family and friends doing a drive-by graduation party in their Lexus vehicles as a student in a cap and gown waves from her driveway. In another, a man greets his children and grandkids from a distance as they drive by, waving a homemade "Happy Birthday, Grandpa" sign.

"We wanted to make sure we weren't showing large gatherings of people," said Lisa Materazzo, vice president of marketing at Lexus, owned by Toyota Motor 7203.T. "But it's nice to have a live interaction, and that can happen when you're safe in the car and waving from the driveway."

Staying connected during the pandemic is the message behind ads for the department store Macy's, whose window displays and Santaland attraction have been hallmarks of the holidays since the late 19th century. At a time when flying home or hosting big family gatherings can be dangerous, Macy's M.N is focusing on how finding and giving the perfect gift plays an even bigger role in connecting with people you can not see in person this year, according to Macy's chief customer officer Rich Lennox.

A similar theme underpins Etsy's ETSY.O commercial, in which a woman who longs to see her grandson opens a gift of a handmade doll that matches a picture he had drawn.

EU govts propose to scan encrypted messages in crackdown on Islamism

BLOOMBERG
November 9

EUROPEAN UNION GOVERNMENTS are considering a coordinated crackdown on Islamist radicalisation, including an effort to gain access to encrypted communications in a move that risks stoking tensions with Muslim countries and a backlash from tech companies. "We must protect people in Europe from Islamism," according to a draft paper seen by Bloomberg, which has been prepared for a meeting of EU home affairs ministers on Friday. It calls for the EU's executive arm to promote religious education and training of imams within the EU "that is in line with European fundamental rights and values."

Attacks in France and Austria have catapulted terrorism back to the top of the EU's political agenda. French President Emmanuel Macron's plan to crack down on Islamist "separatism" and his comment that Islam was facing a "crisis" have led to conflict with some Muslim leaders, including Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan, who accuses him of religious persecution. Austria arrested 30 people on Monday who are suspected to be linked to Hamas or the Muslim Brotherhood, according to the prosecutor's office.
